ABOUT WAH MEI

Founded in 1974, Wah Mei School is proud to be the first Chinese American bilingual school in San Francisco. We promote a nurturing, high-quality English – Chinese multilingual and multicultural environment that promotes children's development and creates a supportive community for their families.

Wah Mei School has adapted our before and afterschool programs to serve the urgent need of families during distance learning. Students will join us for a full day of programming where staff will support student's distance learning lessons and assignments and provide supplemental indoor and outdoor activities in a dual language Cantonese/English enrichment program. We provide children with an opportunity to expand their language capability while building community in a small group setting. We believe that a high quality youth program meets the needs of youth through academic support, multiculturalism, project-based curriculum that aligns with school day learning, and social support through mentoring relationships.

This program is designed to support Cantonese language learners, either as a supplement to Cantonese immersion school, or extended learning for those learning Cantonese at home, through weekend programs, or who began dual language learning in preschool.

PROGRAM INFORMATION

This program is open to all K-5 students, priority will be given to families who must work outside the home and families enrolled in Wah Mei programs.

We will also prioritize kindergarten students as the youngest learners may be most impacted by distance learning during their transition to elementary school.

- Students must participate in their school's distance learning to be eligible
- Students must bring a device and headphones to complete distance learning (contact us if device support is needed)
