Wah Mei School has adapted our before and afterschool programs to serve the urgent need of families during distance learning. Students join us for a full day of programming where staff will support student's distance learning lessons and assignments and provide supplemental indoor and outdoor activities in a dual language Cantonese/English enrichment program.

The ACE Program provides youth an opportunity to engage with peers and mentors in a safe, supportive environment, following all Department of Public Health guidance for safe youth programming during COVID-19. Health and safety requirements include but are not limited to daily health screenings, masks, 14 student maximum per class, and no interaction between classes.

We believe that a high quality youth program meets the needs of youth through academic support, multiculturalism, project-based curriculum that aligns with school day learning, and social support through mentoring relationships. This program provides enrichment and peer interactions that are sorely missed during distance learning.

The ACE Program is designed to support Cantonese language learners. Mandarin support is also available. There is no language requirement to participate.
